HENRY E. ABBEY IS DEAD.

THE CELEBRATED IMPRESARIO PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY.

Although He Had Been III for Some Time, Very Few Knew His Condition Was Serious-His Career as a Theatrical Manager.

New York, Oct. 17.-Henry E. Abbey, of the theatrical firm of Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau, died early to-day in his apartments at the Osborne Death was due to hemorrhage from the stomach. With him when he died were his daughter and Mrs. Kingsley, mother of Mr. Abbey's first wife. The present Mrs. Abbey, who recently brought suit for divorce, is said to be in Europe. Mr Abbey had been ill some time. Several months ago his condition was said to be most serious, but after that he improved. The change in his condition came about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and from that time on he grew steadily worse,

One of the first to be called to the bedside of the dying man was John B. Schoeffel, of Mr. Abbey's firm. Mr. Schoeffel im mediately took charge, and was also in the sick room at the time of his friend's death.

Mr. Abbey had been heard of but little publicly since the publication of his wife's action for divorce, and the reorganization of his firm, which caused such a sensation in the amusement world a few months ago. Only his intimate friends knew where he was living, and they only had an intima tion of the seriousness of his condition For this reason the announcement of his death came as a startling surprise.

Henry E. Abbey started a line in the atricals that was particularly his own. He would handle only the greatest attrac-tions. In the presentation of these stars and productions, involving great risk, lav-ish display and boldness of conception, Mr Abbey was unequaled.

To Mr. Abbey Americans are indebted for introducing to them Bernhardt, Henry Irv-ing, Patti, Jane Harding, Mount-Sully, De Rejane, Beerbohm Tree, Josef Hoffman, Melba, Calve and many others. He also managed the last tour of Mary Anderson. Mr. Abbey was born in Akron, O., in 1846 He was the successor of his father in the jewelry business in that city. In 1809 he became manager of the summer opera house in Akron. A year later Mr. Abbey took to the road. He first managed the Worrall sisters, then Edwin Adams, and later he was the manager of Edwin Booth and Lotta. With the latter he is said to have made much money. In 1876 Mr. Abbey assumed control o the Academy of Music in Buffalo. He took as a partner John B. Schoeffel, whom h made manager. A year later they acquired possession of the Park theater, in this city. On October 30, 1882, fire broke out in the theater and spoiled Mrs. Langtry's Ameri The firm of Abbey & Schoeffel has since managed the Grand opera house in this city, Booth's theater, the Park and Tre mont theaters in Boston; the Metropolitan opera house in this city twice, and the Lyceum theater in London. Mr. Abbey is credited with the distinct tion of having restored Italian opera in this country. In this attempt he was asthis country. In this attempt he was associated with Maurice Grau. Their first attempt was a disastrous failure. Mr. Ab-bey, in 1884, was given a benefit at the Metropolitan opera house that netted, it is said, $30,000.

Mr. Abbey was an enthusiastic club man and belonged to a number of clubs. His first wife was a Miss Kingsley. After her death, he married Florence Girard, a well known actress, who recently sued him for separation on the ground of cruelty. Mr. Abbey's answer was that his wife was extravarant, abusive and tealous. He accurate the second of the second travagant, abusive and jealous. He accused her of setting a servant to spy on him. Mr. Abbey's daughter, Miss Kate Abbey, 14 years old, by his first wife, declared that her father always used the rec-ond Mrs. Abbey kindly, The name of Mr. Abbey will always have a distinct and honorable association with that American musical epoch that marked the restoration of Italian opera. His several fallures will be forgotten in the brill iant successes that can only be surpassed by a generation of more gifted singers and that seems to be hardly probable. The greatest of Mr. Abbey's successer were during the seasons of 1893-94 and the following. It will be remembered that had no grand opera in 1892, fire having ruined the audience-room of the Metropo itan opera house in August, 1892, and it be-ing thought impracticable to attempt to reconstruct the theater before the time for the season to begin.

sensation was a novel one to the New York public, and was variously viewed. Perhaps the most philosophical attitude was that of the friends of the German institution, which had been supplanted by Messrs. Abbey and Grau in the fall of 1890. They were not a little surprised that Mr. Abbey should be willing to undertake a revival of Italian opera after his experi-ence of ten years before, and again in the winter of 1891-92, but so strong was their conviction that the experiment would resuit in failure and that failure would re-suit in the re-establishment of German op-era possibly on a sounder and more artistic footing than ever, that some of them actually rejoiced in the change. It was very rash under the best of circumsances to at tempt to say anything about the future of opera and the notions of managers. Noth ing in this world is quite so paradoxical as the business of opera giving. The pro-foundest philosopher in the business was the Englishman, Taylor, who managed the al Opera in London from the inside of Fiset prison, where he had been sent be-cause he couldn't or wouldn't pay his debts, and accepted his fate cheerfully, because, he said, no man insane enough to become an opera manager had a right to be at large, and, within the sheltering walls of the Piect he was safe from the importunities of his singers.

Having failed in his undertakings to the tune of some $250,000 ten years before, and made a failure of it from a financial point of view two years before, Mr. Abbey plunged into the speculation deeper than How much it cost him on an erage to "raise the curtain" every night that season only those intimately con-nected with the enterprise knew-$5,000 a very conservative estimate.

Abbey might easily have become great international manager, had he chosen, for his services were often sought from abroad, strange as it may seen European art interests should seek direc of American hands. Two years ago he was asked whether he could not combine things as to keep this wonderful company continually employed for a por-tion of the year here, and the remainder of the year on the other side. "Outside of the season directed by Sir Augustus Harris in London," he said, "it would be quite possible, but I should not care to be the one to undertake it. For instance, some time ago we had an offer to take hold of the Grand opera house in Paris and run it under the same system as now exists. We promptly declined. as now exists. We promptly declined. It is this paper. Your last chance to secure is true the government possesses what cheap reduced rates this season.

may be called a large subsidy. That is $160,000 a year. But what is that when you consider that you are obliged to keep the opera house open fifty-two weeks in the year and give so many performances there during that time? You are compelled to produce four or five new French operas, written by French composers, every year, and you are held under such restrictions by the government that your soul is not

"I don't want to manage theaters, even the Grand opera house in Paris, for the empty honor of the thing," said Mr. Abbey. "So far I have always been able to carry through my contracts, but I fear that th Grand opera house would be too much for me. There is always a fizzle there, and it has now sunk down to a pretty low ebb, from an artistic standpoint. Brussels gives better opera than Paris, and we give better opera than either." When asked as to the number of people employed by his firm he said: "Well, I should say close on to 2,000. Ten of them, however, get almost as much as the other 1,990 combined. The season of the opera has been very prosperous so far; marvelously so when you consider what a year it is. But still there always seems to be plenty of money for good things. Mr. Irving has never done better than this eason in New York."

The recent failure of the firm, through scattering interests and Mr. Abbey's ill health, is familiar history. The liabilities were about $300,000.

BEATEN AND ROBBED.

An Engineer's Money Taken While Many Looked on-Policeman Said to Have been a Spectator.

John Clark, a switch engineer, at pres ent employed at Armour's as a stationary engineer, was held up and robbed of $50, his month's wages, at 9 o'clock yesterday. The robber escaped. The reported rob bery and assault which was intermingled with it, occurred in an alley just off Seventeenth street, south side, between Jarboe and Madison streets, and is said to have been witnessed by several persons, including Officer Shearer, of the Southwest boulevard police. Clark and his robber friend found acquaintance, so Clark's story goes, in a down town saloon, after Clark had received his month's wages. Clark started home, 1640 Jarboe street, and his robber friend went with him on a Summit street car. They alighted at Sixteenth and Summit streets and started towards Clark's house. Several persons saw that Clark was very much under the influence of Henry Falk, of 1706 Summit, saw Clark and his friend going towards the alley, but thought the friend was trying to get Clark away from the eager stare of an interested populace. Ethel Chapman, daughter of Luther Chapman, chief engineer of the water works, looked over the rear fence of her father's house, at 1704, and saw Clark and his robber friend havout in the dirt. The intended robbe told Ethel to go away, and as she turned her back on the scene she heard the man ask Clark for his tobacco, at the same time seeing him thrust his hand into

SHOT BY A DRUNKEN BRUTE.

AS A RESULT ERNEST WRIGHT IS FATALLY WOUNDED.

John Sears, the Probable Murderer, May Be Lynched-In Jail at Lee's Summit-Both Are Well-todo Farmers of Cockerell.

As a result of a fight between prominent farmers at Cockerell, Mo., Friday afternoon, John Sears, who is well known in that section of the county, is in jail at Lee's Summit, and Earnest Wright, the 18year-old son of Robert Wright, is shot through the bowels and death will likely result. The tragedy has aroused that section of the county, and strong talk is being made of lynching Sears in the event that the boy dies. Sears is guarded at Lee's Summit, and Ernest Wright, the 18crazed with drink and did not know what he was doing.

The Wrights and the Sears family were neighborly up to the time of the tragedy and visited one another much after the fashion that farmer folks are wont to do. Friday, John Sears, who lives some distance from the Wright home, brought his wife over to the Wright home for a day's visit He left his wife there, but he him-self went on to Lee's Summit, where he proceeded to drink heavily. In the afternoon he started home crazed with liquor and a big pistol in his pocket. Mrs. Sears, during the absence of her husband, had returned home.

When Sears arrived at the Wright farm house he entered and sat down, engaging Robert Wright, an elderly gentleman, in conversation. His maudin talk did not in-terest the old gentleman, and, after a brief conversation, which showed Sears' ugly disposition, the old gentleman got up Sears called him back and notioning him to a seat, asked him where Mrs. Sears was. He told Sears that he did not know. Sears again demanded to know where his wife was, using oaths with his

Wright, fearing trouble, started to leave wright, rearing trouble, started to leave, just as Sears, in his drunken rage, declared that old man Wright was a liar.

Wright saw the movement of Sears' towards his hip pocket, and started out of the room, followed by Sears, in a towering rage. Just as the elder farmer vanished out of the door, Sears fired, but the followed him down missed Wright. He followed him down through the barn lot, where Ernest Wright the 18-year-old son, was unloading a wagon of corn. Seeing the flight of his father, with the drunken wretch in hot pursuit, he jumped from his wagon and, picking up a large stone, raised it to strike Sear down. Sears saw the boy, leveled his gun and, with an oath, shot. Young Wright sank to the ground, shot through the bowels. He lay there a moment, and then, i desperation, summoned all of les energy to see what had become of his father.

The old gentleman had made good his flight across a field to a neighbor's, where the alarm was given. Young Wright, fear-ing the return of his assallant, managed by superhuman strength to drag himself to the home of Obe Tysons, where his strength gave out. He was placed on a couch and Dr. Smith sent for. The ball, which was from a 38-caliber revolver, was probed for, but could not be found. terday young Wright was bleeding inter-nally, and his death is but a matter of time. Sears was arrested and taken to Lee's Summit for safe keeping, to await the result of the injuries to his victim.

John Sears is a brother of Elek Sears, who was killed two years ago at Stras-burg, Mo., by William Arnold. Elek Sears was of pretty much the same temperament as John Sears, and while drinking was razed and dangerous with a gun.

The principals in the tragedy of Friday being well known in that section of the county, has caused a general cessation of business among the farmers, and when the facts became known as to the shooting. Wright's relatives wanted to avenge the supposed killing and grabbed for guns. The wives of the men, assisted by neighbors, kept the men in the house until Sears was locked up at Lee's Summit.
